

Hi Anna,

Thanks for considering me for the Marketing Assistant position. I'm sure you had a tough time choosing the right candidate for the job.

To help in future interviews, I would appreciate your feedback on ways I might improve. Perhaps in my demeanor, dress, or establishing rapport with you? Any insights you provide will be most welcome.

Plus, I'm keen to know how your idea for the kitchen staff writing a blog pans out. Keep me updated, and if you're looking for insights I'm always available.

Best of luck,

Jesse Kanclerz

P.S. I've already made a mental note to never again order an espresso while on an interview. From now on it'll be a plain cup of joe for me.
